

Paddywax is a global distributor and manufacturer of candles, with a large 200,000 square foot facility located in Nashville, TN.

PROBLEM

Paddywax was preparing to move to a new facility and needed to sell their existing property quickly. However, the exterior of the building was not in ideal condition, prompting ownership to seek a full repaint and joint sealant before listing. Paintjet was brought in to complete the project within a tight timeline.

SOLUTION

After Paddywax decided to sell their existing facility, they contacted several local painting contractors, including PaintJet. Among the quotes received, PaintJet's stood out due to our commitment to both speed and quality, made possible by our advanced process and technology solutions. With only two weeks' notice and in the middle of the busy painting season, PaintJet was able to fully repaint the 200,000 square foot facility in just three weeks. Our streamlined process and cutting-edge technology played a key role in achieving this impressive feat, helping us deliver exceptional results within a tight timeline.

// Thanks to PaintJet, exterior painting and maintenance planning are two less things I have to worry about. Compared to traditional painting, this is a welcome change.
